Leading and Growing through Challenging Times is a theme that many people are currently experiencing, whether it's in their community, personal lives, or workplace. Gus Lee's, "Courage: The Backbone of Leadership" is a phenomenal read for those looking to expand their knowledge and leadership skills. Lee writes on his vast experience which gives his readers insight about why having courage is important. This presentation on Courage goes over key concepts from the book and examples will be offered involving how to daily apply principles of courage involving NWS operations. The presentation will also provide built-in interactive questions to keep listeners engaged.

Time Requested: 45 minutes to 1 hour, the longer time is preferred if we're able to engage with the attendees throughout the presentation.
