

Sammy Hadi

Meteorologist
NOAA
National Weather Service
Miami / South Florida

Sammy Hadi is a meteorologist at the NOAA National Weather Service forecast office (WFO) in Miami, FL.

Hadi received a Bachelor of Science degree in Atmospheric Science Meteorology from Florida International University (2017) and a Master of Science in Applied Meteorology from Mississippi State University (2019). He also completed a Graduate Certificate in Disaster Management and Emergency Services from the University of Florida (2020).

He has previously held internships at the National Weather Service Miami forecast office, the Tropical Analysis and Forecast Branch at the National Hurricane Center, the International Hurricane Research Center at Florida International University and Sinclair Broadcasting's CBS affiliate WPEC-TV in West Palm Beach as a Broadcast Meteorologist Intern.

Hadi has been passionate about Meteorology since the age of four. He aspires to inspire the next generation of meteorologists, and to help educate and inform the community about Weather and Climate Chang

Aside from his studies in the field of Meteorology, Hadi is deeply involved in the South Florida community via various philanthropic organizations. He is a certified Environmentalist in Training and is a member of the American Meteorological Society and the National Weather Association.

January 2021