

Strong Winds and Light Interior Snowfall

December 4, 2024
5:27 AM

Overview

- Strong winds develop late tonight, with gusts up to 50 mph expected through Thursday evening.
- Snow develops across the interior late this evening, with up to an inch or two possible in the higher elevations by Thursday morning.

HAZARDS & IMPACTS

Strong Winds

- Peak Winds: Gusts up to 50 mph
- Location/Timing: Entire local Tri-State on Thursday
- Impacts: Strong winds will blow down limbs and blow around unsecured objects, including holiday decorations. A few trees and power lines could be downed and power outages are possible.

Light Interior Snowfall

- Snowfall: Up to 2 inches.
- Location/Timing: Portions of the Lower Hudson Valley and interior SE CT late this evening through Thursday morning.
- Impacts: Snow / snow showers may reduce visibility and create hazardous driving conditions, including during Thursday's morning commute.

NWS ALERTS

- Wind Advisory: Entire local Tri-State from 6 am to 10 pm Thursday.
- Gale Warning: All coastal waters from 6 pm this evening through Thursday night.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

- Localized gusts as high as 55 mph possible across far eastern Long Island and southeastern Connecticut on Thursday.

NEXT BRIEF

By 5 pm Wednesday.

Wind Watches Warnings and Advisories

NWS Hazard information also available in Spanish, Chinese and French

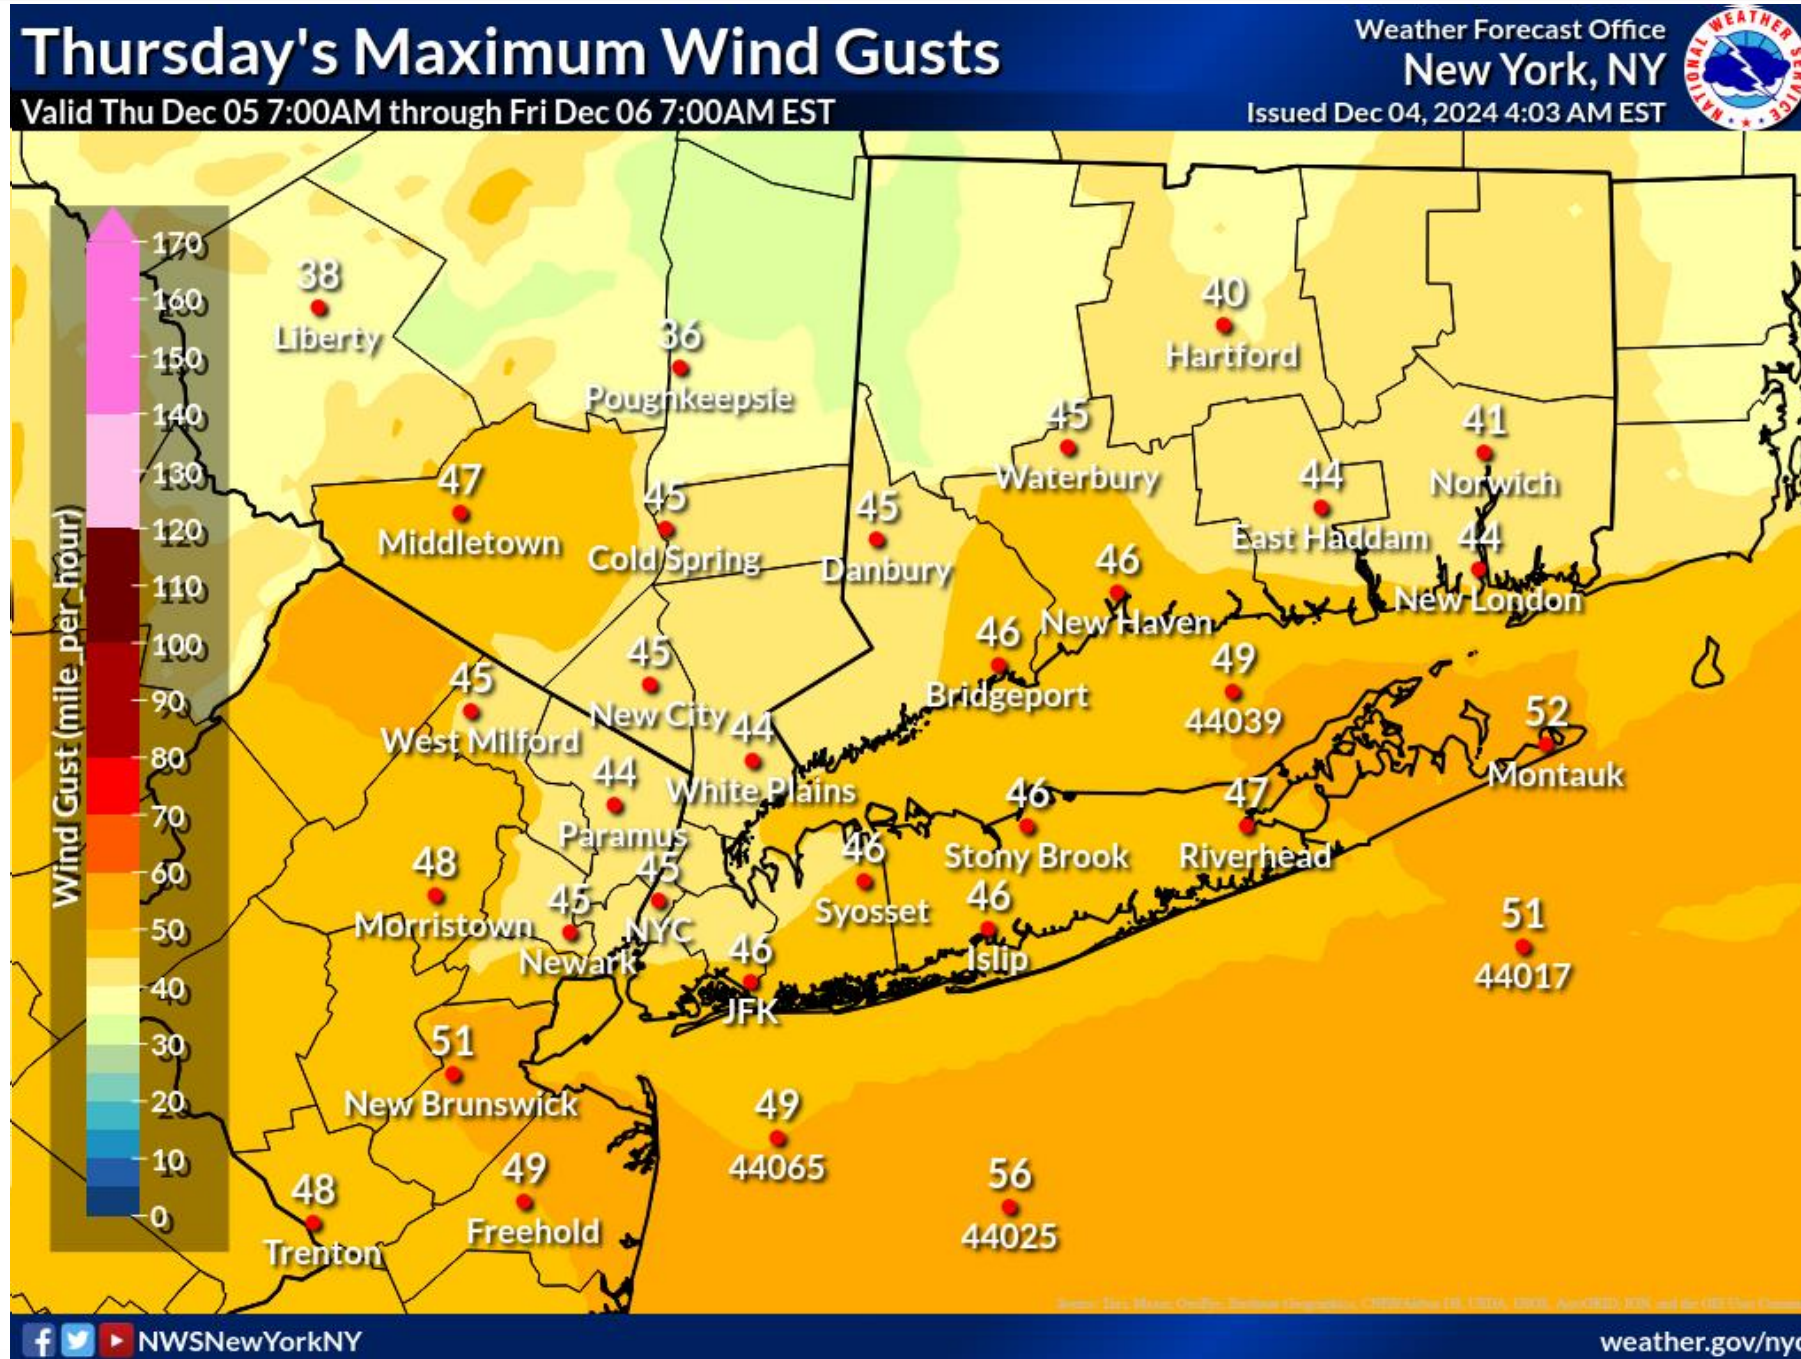

Graphic Created
December 4th, 2024
4:23 AM CST

Maximum Wind Gust Forecast

December 4, 2024
5:27 AM

Most Likely Snowfall - Official Forecast

December 4, 2024
5:27 AM

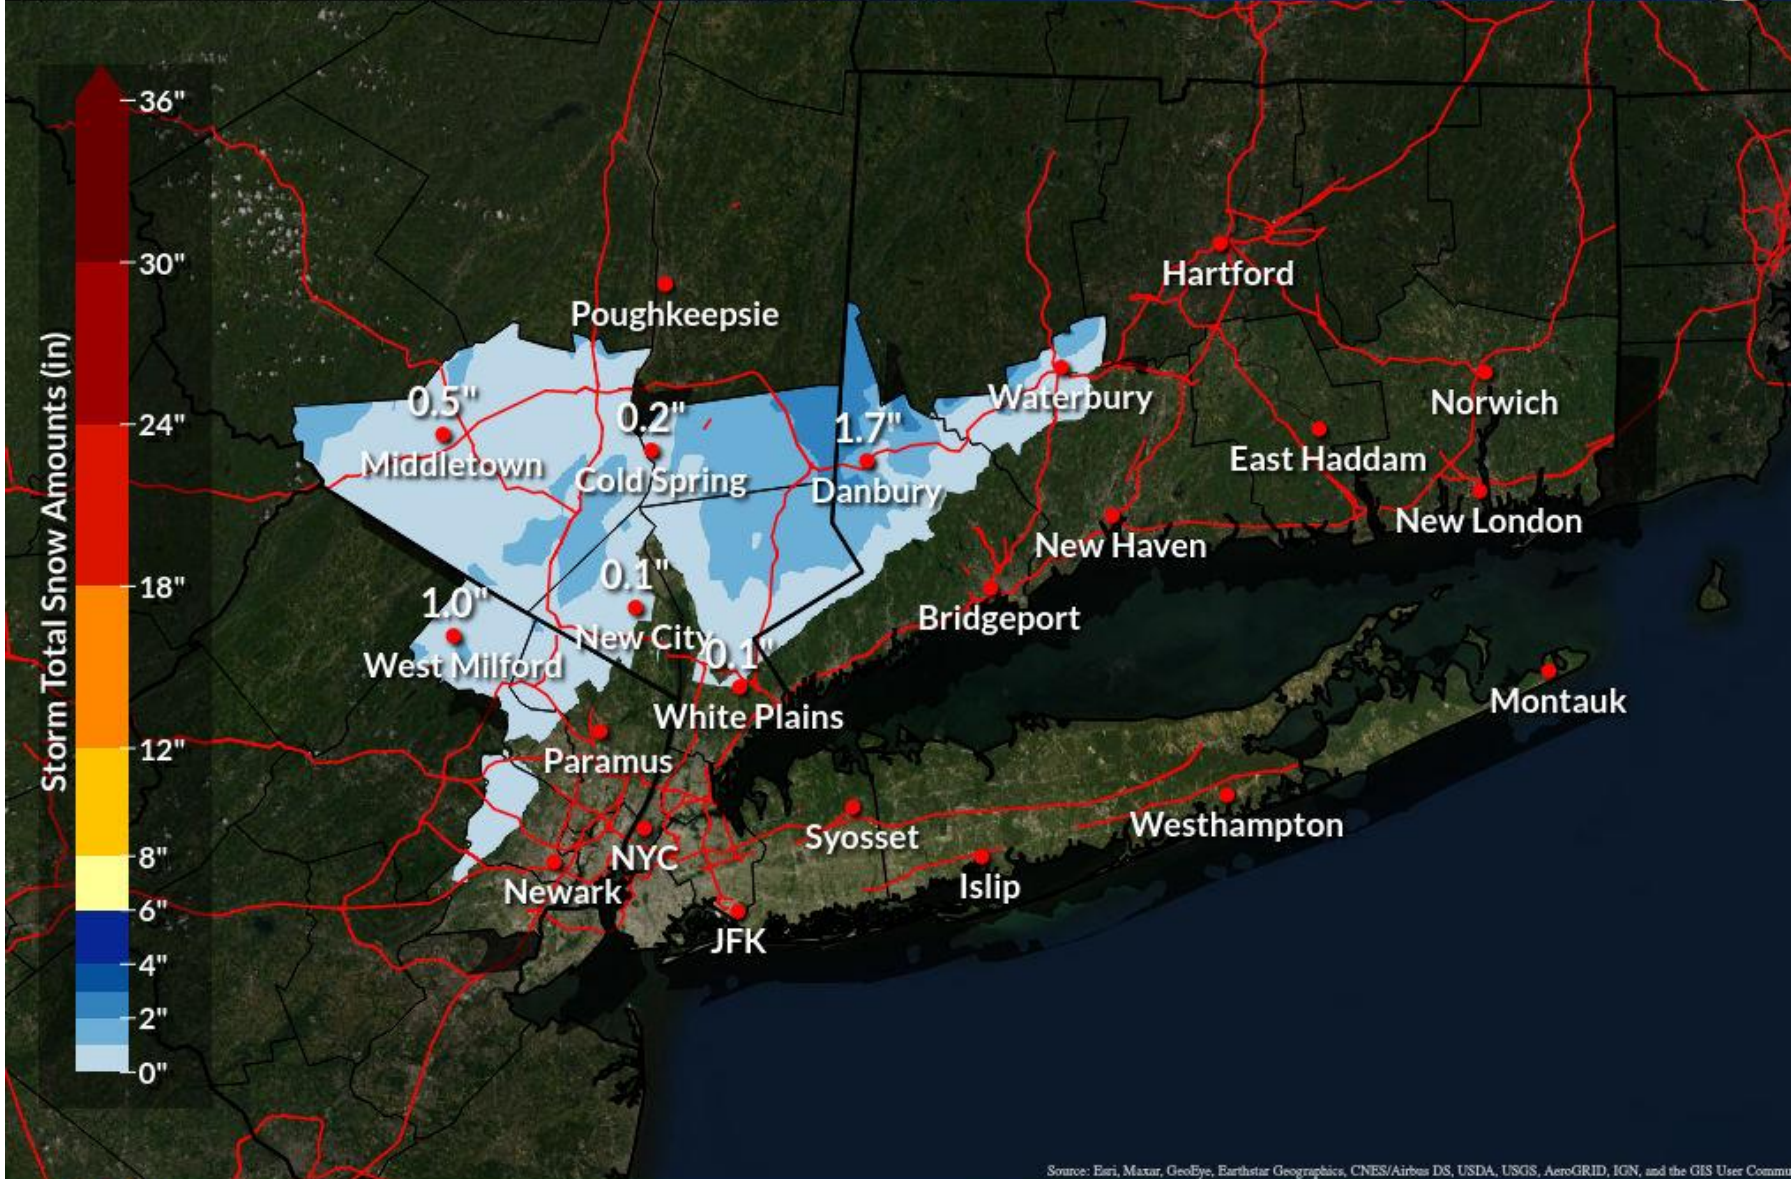

Expected Snowfall - Official NWS Forecast

Weather Forecast Office
New York, NY

Valid 7 PM Wed Dec 04, 2024 through 1 PM Thu Dec 05, 2024 EST

Issued Dec 04, 2024 4:41 AM EST

Source: Esri, Maxar, GeoEye, Earthstar Geographics, CNES/Airbus DS, USDA, USGS, AeroGRID, IGN, and the GIS User Community

NWSNewYorkNY

weather.gov/nyc

National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration
U.S. Department of Commerce

National Weather Service
New York, NY